The Herald's Philadelphia special says the proceedings of the Fenian Congress are still enveloped in comparative secrecy, the Secretary offering only a brief outline of the business, and of a character the publication of which is not prejudicial to the object of the fraternity. During yesterday, however, it was evident from the glad faces and earnest shake hands of the delegates that Congress had decided on the congress had decided on the congress of the congress and decided on the congress had decided on the congress had decided on the congress had to congress the congress and the congress had to congress the congress that congress the congress had to congress the congress that congress that congress the congress the congress that congress the congress the congress that congress the congress that congress the congress

A fire last night destroyed the woolen mill of Shaw, Taylor & Co. in West Philadelphia. It originated in the carding room. The loss on the building is $20,000; perfly insured. The loss in stock is about $25,000; insured for $15,000. It was insured in the Royal and other insurance companies.

Will sell four hand fire engines and two hose-carriages, belonging to the city. For terms, etc., call at my office.

examination at his own request, in the presence of the members of the military commission. His right arm is much swollen and inflamed from the effects of a wound. A plece of bone had been removed, rendering the limb of little but use.

The formal of the carios, The following is the dispatch sent by be President to Gov. Holden:

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 13, 1865. . W. Holden, Prov. Gov. of N. C.: Every dollar of the State debt creat Every dollar of the State debt created to aid the rebellion should be repudiated finally and forever. The great mass of the people should not be taxed to aid in paying a debt created by carrying on a rebellion to which they were opposed. Let those who have given their names to the obligation of the State to establish a power in violation of law, the Constitution and the will of the people, meet their fate; it is a misfortune that can't be recognized by the people of any State professing themselves loyal to the Government of the United States,

I repeat that the loyal people should be exonerated from the payment of every dollar of indebtedness created to aid in carrying on the rebellion. I trust and hope that the people of North Carolina will wash their hands of everything that partakes in the slightest degree of the rebellion which has been so recently crushed by the strong arm of the Government in carrying out the obligations imposed by the Constitution of the Union.

The Wirtz Military Convention reassemulated to-day. Judge Advocate Chipman proceeded to read his argument on the charges. The second, alledging murder in violation of the laws and customs of war, and treating the subject under four beads as follows: First, the various cases war, and treating the subject under four war, and treating the subject under four Lands, Texas. beads as follows: First, the various cases of death and mutilations by hundreds.

Third, cases of killing of prisoners by guards persuant to directions of the accused, given at the time. Fourth, cases of killing by the prisoners' over bendering. given at the time. Fourth, cases of killing by the prisoners' own hands, He briefly argued the responsibility of the accused, he having grossly violated the laws and customs of war. At the conclusion of Col. Chipman's reading of his argument, the prisoner requested that Dr. Bates might examine his person in the presence of the cont, to show that he was physically incapable of committing the acts of murder and the batteries alleged against him. The request was granted. It was announced that the doors would be closed, when the court went into secret seem to to deliberate out he case. Nothing
